Resident and non-resident tuition rates for students enrolled in the professional veterinary program are given below. The rise in tuition rates was primarily affected by chronically decreasing financial support from the State Legislature, while the cost of the professional teaching program increased. As a rule, the percentage of state support in the College budget has continually decreased over time.

The figures here were extracted from College bulletins published biennially and from information maintained in college administrative offices. The University's tuition and other fees sometimes included a fraction of a dollar, but the numbers below have been rounded to the nearest dollar.
